The World Question
His Heart Cut Out
To Live 100 Years
Who Understands Money?

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE WORLD question is: "What is Germany's condition?"

The second question: "What would happen to the world if Germany industry and finance should collapse?"

That probably will not happen, despite German effort to borrow $500,000,000 to bolster the Reichsbank shows how difficult the situation is, even after President Hoover's energetic action temporarily stopping payments under the young plan.

YOU REMEMBER, perhaps, that this column has often advised against buying foreign bonds, indiscriminately. An investment nearer home is safer in such times as these.

Some that preferred foreign investments, tempted by higher interest rates, or glowing salesmanship phrases, will realize presently, if they have not done so already, that the warning given here was needed.

THOSE THAT KNOW anything about finance have known for years that Germany could not fulfill the terms of the Young plan. Germany knew she could not possibly live up to the terms of the plan on the very day that she signed.

What Germany wanted was to get rid of foreign soldiers, French, English and some of ours, holding possession of German soil, at German expense. She would have signed anything to get rid of them; she did sign and got rid of them. Now she gets rid of the Young plan.

Carmello Liconti, racketeer connected with the Brooklyn Barbers' and Longshoremen's Union, was the victim. Human nature develops hideously when contempt for law becomes universal, as it has done recently in the United States, when officials supposed to enforce the law share the profits of lawbreakers, and fear of punishment is removed.

CIGARET TAX BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

EFFECTIVE FOR TWO YEARS

Places Levy of Cent on Every 10 Cigarets Sold in Ohio.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 10—Governor White today signed the new state cigaret tax bill, passed by the last general assembly, to provide additional revenues for state operators.

The law provides a tax of one cent for every 10 cigarets and will be operative only for a two-year period. It becomes effective immediately but will not be placed in operation by the state until Sept. 1, the earliest possible date on which the machinery for its collection can be set up.

The governor made no comment on the bill except to announce that he had placed his approval on it. The measure had been opposed by many tobacco manufacturers and dealers.

Commission Enlarged

Governor White also approved a bill increasing the membership of the state tax commission from three to four men and increasing the salaries to $5,000 a year from $4,000. The measure also gives the commission added powers.

This measure was a running mate of the intangibles tax bill which already has been approved. The increase of the commission membership was decided upon because of the added burden in the administration of the intangible tax measure and the cigaret tax bill.

Disposing of the 14 legislative measures that remained on his desk, Governor White announced that he would leave immediately for a brief rest at his boyhood home in Titusville, Pa.

The governor will be accompanied to Pennsylvania by his daughter, Mary. They will be joined at Titusville by Mr. White's son, Robert, and his other daughter, Charlotte.

Works Past Midnight

The governor worked late into last night cleaning his desk of the legislative measures requiring his action. It was not until 12:15 this morning that he and his advisers emerged from the executive offices with the announcement that the fate of the 14 legislative measures had been decided.

The chief executive's "vacation" will be brief. On Monday he will leave Titusville for Cleveland to attend a gathering of the Masonic shrine and on Wednesday he will review Ohio state troops at Camp Perry.

LAUNCH PROBE INTO BRIBERY AT PRISONS

Federal Prisoners Paid for Transfer to Other Places, Charges State.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 10—Newspapers today said that the department of justice is investigating a system of bribery in federal prisons, whereby prisoners were shifted to more comfortable quarters in other parts of the country.

The system, as described, has been practiced mainly in Atlanta and Leavenworth and affects liquor law violators and men convicted for stock fraud chiefly. The investigation started when a watch smuggler admitted he paid $1,000 to be shifted from Atlanta to the army detention camp at Fort Wadsworth, N. Y. His two associates were transferred after paying $800 and $500.

John Edwar Hoover is conducting the investigation, which is expected to be difficult because 1,500 or more prisoners have been shifted to army camps recently to avoid congestion in the regular prisons. Only a small part of that number paid bribes, if such a system flourishes.

Sudden Heart Attack Claims J. M. Schneider

City Councilman Dies in Bed Some Time in Night; Was Prominent in Lodge Circles and Associated with Financial Firms.

Death claimed John M. Schneider, 70, Marion city councilman, last night or early this morning. He was found dead in bed this morning. Heart trouble was given as the cause of death, after a physician had examined the body.

Mr. Schneider was prominent in Knights of Pythias lodge circles here and was actively associated with a number of Marion financial institutions. He was elected Democratic councilman from the Fifth ward in 1927, and was a member of the police and airport committees.

Mr. Schneider had been director and vice president of the People's Building, Savings & Loan Co. since its organization in 1915, and once served as president of the Citizens Building and Loan Co. He was councilman from the Fifth ward for nearly four years, and was completing his second term at the time of his death.

"LOOKS" HELP

The fact that appearances are deceiving profited Jacob Achenbach almost two million dollars. When the 87-year-old president of the Beaver, Meade & Englewood railroad of Oklahoma went to the Katy railroad offices in St. Louis four years ago to sell his 103-mile line for $600,000, clerks wouldn't let him see the president of the larger road because of his unkempt appearance. Still totally unchanged, Achenbach is shown with a $2,800,000 check from the president of the Katy railroad. In four years the price of his property went up almost four times.

H. L. DOHERTY FILES SUIT FOR $12,000,000

Brings Action Against Kansas City Newspaper as Result of Gas Rate Fight.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 10—Henry L. Doherty, head of the Cities Service company, filed suit for $12,000,000 damages against the Kansas City Star here today as an outgrowth of a campaign by the Star and Governor Harry Woodring for a reduction in Kansas gas rates.

The action, brought in the circuit court of Jackson county, Missouri, named the Kansas City Star company, George B. Longan, president, Roy A. Roberts, managing editor, and Fred C. Trigg, Kansas editor, for the Star, as defendants.

R. C. Adams, vice president and general manager of the Gas Service company, a holding corporation for the Doherty subsidiaries in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, described the action as a civil libel suit.

The plaintiff seeks $1,000,000 actual and $1,000,000 punitive damages on each of six counts, based on articles which appeared in the Star on various dates, in which allegedly defamatory and libelous on articles which appeared in the statements are made.

The petition specifically denied the truth of statements made in the quoted articles that a management fee of 1% per cent of the annual gross revenue of the subsidiary companies went to the personal account of Doherty.

The suit alleges that the Star and its officers had planned and attempted to organize a competitive enterprise in North Central gas in the Kansas City territory for the purpose of [illegible]

ASK FACTS ON WHEAT PLANS

WANT MARKET PROTECTED

Ohio Farm Interests at Stake in Plan for Sale of Federal Supply.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 10—The Ohio state board of agriculture today had adopted a resolution calling upon the federal grain marketing board to immediately state its intention in regard to the vast supply of wheat on hand.

The resolution adopted by the board of agriculture declares that the federal farm marketing board "should be required to make a firm announcement that its present holdings of wheat will be permanently withdrawn from the world markets," or refusing this to immediately announce a permanent marketing plan which "shall not hereafter be changed."

Such immediate decision by the federal board was declared to be necessary in order that wheat prices as well as other farm products may be stabilized.

"It is the board's opinion that until the federal government comes to some definite decision as to what it intends to do with its holdings, the Ohio farmer will have little or no market for this years grain, and, that this situation will affect the price and market for all other products," a statement issued by the board said.

The state board of agriculture pointed out that Ohio is one one of the three largest wheat producing state east of the Mississippi river and that federal estmates of this season's crop is 38,000,000 bushels or almost 10,000,000 bushels in excess of last year's crop.

The federal wheat holdings was referred to by the state board in a statement accompanying its resolution as "an ever-present menace to agriculture."

"It is ordered by the board that copies of this resolution be forwarded to President Hoover, to Chairman Stone of the grain marketing board and to secretaries of the boards of agriculture of the various states," the resolution stipuated

The Ohio board of agriculture acts in an advisory capacity to the state director of agriculture, I. S. Guthery of Marion county, in formulating policies of the department. It also has a veto authority of certain administrative phases of the department as well as being vested with absolute authority in certain other department functions.

TROUBLE NOT OVER

Further Action Expected in Mexican Consul's Court Case.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10—Although contempt of court proceedings against Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul, were dismissed by Municipal Judge Thomas Green, further action was expected by the Mexican consulate from the state department at Washington.

Judge Green's dismissal of the charge against Dominguez, whom he had sentenced to six months for allegedly creating a disturbance in court last Tuesday, was described by E. Manuel Bleier, attorney for the consulate, as a "good beginning."

Dominguez who got in jail was soon subsequently released on a habeas corpus writ following a conference with Judge Green, who reportedly stated when the consul's attorneys presented the writ that [illegible]

LIMA MURDERS NOW LAID TO BLACKMAILERS

Lucas County Coroner Makes Statement After Quizzing James May.

FAILS TO SHAKE ALIBI

Is Returned to Jail in Lima; Attorney Calls Arrest "Frameup."

By International News Service

LIMA, O., July 10 — Failing to shake the alibi offered by James May, the 22-year-old suspect held in the murder of Earl Truesdale, 20, and Thelma Woods, 17, authorities today started an investigation to determine whether a blackmail gang might have committed the double killing.

After questioning May at Toledo yesterday, where he was taken after he was rearrested, Coroner Frank C. Kreft of Lucas county openly blamed a blackmail gang for the murder.

The spot near an abandoned quarry, where the couple was murdered on the night of May 30, is a notorious "lovers' lane" where blackmailers have taken advantage of couples going there for the last year, May told the coroner.

Declares May Innocent

Declaring he was convinced of May's innocence, Kreft said he believed Truesdale was slain when he fought with one of the blackmailers. The girl was killed and the two bodies were thrown into the quarry in an attempt to hide the real cause for the crime, Kreft believed.

May was brought back to Lima yesterday and was again placed in the county jail, despite charges by Eugene Lippincott, an attorney retained by May's family, that the youth's arrest was "a frameup."

May refused to discuss his questioning by Kreft and Allen county officials were similarly silent. May, a former suitor of Miss Woods, clung to his original story, however, it was learned.

No Sign of Insanity

May was a former patient at the Toledo state hospital but the examination yesterday failed to reveal any trace of insanity, according to Dr. Kreft.

Elmer Hubbard, 33, a caretaker at the quarry where the bodies were found, was expected to be sought for further questioning today. Hubbard was held for four days after the bodies were first found, and was then released.

3 PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO FEDERAL CHARGE

Canton Men in Court in Connection with Huge Auto Theft Ring.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 10 — Three of four Canton business men, named in federal warrants charging conspiracy to violate the Dyer act in connection with the operation of a huge automobile theft ring, pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner Charles M. Ball here today. They gave bond of $2,500 each for preliminary hearing before Commissioner Ball July 20.

The three are Harley L. Myers, president of the Myers Motor Co. of Canton and the Community Chevrolet Co. of North Canton; Wayne E. Carpenter, secretary, treasurer of the United Acceptance Corp., and Thomas Movey, automobile drive-away contractor.

A. B. Bailey, department of justice agent, aided by local police, continued the search for the fourth Canton man, William Johnson.

Department of justice agents were to leave here today for Detroit, said to be headquarters for the theft ring, to obtain a list of cars stolen in Detroit and Windsor before returning to Ohio to close their investigation. At least $1,000,000 worth of automobiles stolen throughout Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania are believed to have been disposed of through the ring, [illegible] revealed.

FIND SKELETON OF BOY LOST 9 YEARS

Muncie Lad's Disappearance Solved as Workmen Open Abandoned School Shaft.

By United Press

MUNCIE, Ind., July 10—From a crouching skeleton, a jack knife, an old school calendar and outside evidence dug up overnight, authorities pieced together today a harrowing story of how a youth, probably Perlie Hogg, 16, died a lingering death almost nine years ago in an abandoned air shaft of the Central High school.

Carefree, happy and looking forward with boyish enthusiasm to a hunting trip during the Christmas holidays just ahead, Perlie, an orphan, went to school the morning of Dec. 16, 1922.

He was heard of no more until yesterday when plumbers opened the airshaft and drew back amazed when they saw crouching in the corner the skeleton with bits of corduroy suit clinging to the bones.

Shoes Identified

Charles Cooper, an uncle with whom Perlie lived, looked at the fragments of evidence at the bottom of the death trap today and recognized the heavy work shoes Perlie had worn the morning he started away from school and never returned. He likewise identified the knife, opened and apparently used by the youth in a vain desperate attempt to cut through the walls of the shaft when he found he was trapped and faced a horrible slow death.

Investigators read in the grewsome evidence at the bottom of the shaft that Perlie had fallen from an upper floor, perhaps while sneaking a forbidden smoke in the air shaft, for school authorities said the well was closed and sealed four years ago when it was found pupils were using it as a smoking room.

FLIERS PLAN SECOND SEATTLE-TOKYO HOP

Pilot Explains Failure of First Flight After Covering 2,100 Miles.

By The Associated Press

NOME, Alaska, July 10—Their attempted non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo having ended near here in failure, Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, of Texas, today planned an early return to the United States to try it again.

Robbins and Jones brought their monoplane Fort Worth to earth at Solomon, 30 miles east of here early yesterday after having covered about 2,100 miles of the 5,100 mile route and having connected several times with their tri-motored refueling plane, piloted by J. J. Mattern and Nick Greener.

After a long rest Robbins and Jones announced they would use the Fort Worth for their second attempt, but would install a larger engine. They said the same tri-motored ship would be used for refueling.

CASHIER HELD AT GUN POINT; 2 MEN ESCAPE

J. H. Bardon, 60, Forced To Lie Face Down on Floor.

ONLY $150 OVERLOOKED

Pair Make Getaway to East; Employe Alone in Bank at Time.

The Morral bank was looted of $2,500 today about 10:15 a. m. by two robbers who are being sought by city and county officials throughout north central Ohio.

J. H. Bardon, 60, cashier of the bank, was forced by one of the armed robbers to lie face down on the floor while another looted the tills and vault. Within a few moments after the holdup authorities in several cities and counties were given descriptions of the men and the blue roadster in which they escaped.

Cashier Alone

Bardon was alone in the bank when the two men entered. Both were unmasked and armed. Bardon was first ordered to hold up his hands, and then forced to lie on the floor. He was not injured.

With the exception of $150 lying on the safe, which the men overlooked, all currency in the bank was taken.

Two men answering the description of the robbers fled eastward in a roadster after the holdup. They apparently doubled their tracks and followed a broken course to the Upper Sandusky road, where they were seen by Lawrence Young, son-in-law of the cashier, who was returning toward Morral after completing an errand. He and Dwight Mehaffey had been in the bank for nearly half an hour before the holdup, and had left only two or three minutes before the robbers entered.

Thinks Order Joke

The two men were seen driving around Morral for some time before the holdup, apparently waiting until Mehaffey and Young left Bardon alone in the bank.

Bardon said both men were unshaven, but well dressed. He estimated their ages to be 25. Their only words were to order him to hold up his hands, and lie down on the floor. Until they covered him with revolvers he did not obey, thinking they were practical jokers.

Sheriff C. C. Fye and Deputy M. E. Baldwin joined the search for the men.

Among the first officials to be notified was Sheriff C. Fred Vollmer of Crawford county, who with his deputies patrolled roads leading toward Bucyrus.

Marion patrolmen were furnished descriptions of the men and ordered to be on the lookout for them.

The Morral bank is the only financial institution in the village. Bardon said this was the first holdup since the bank was organized in 1906.

All loss is covered by insurance, Bardon said.

Warner Hits Legislature at Ohio Bar Convention

Marion Attorney Says Last General Assembly "Worst Ever;" Lays Blame on Divided Leadership and Even Partisan Ballot.

Charges that the last general assembly was the "worst ever" due to an even partisan ballot and divided leadership, were made by Fred W. Warner, Marion attorney, yesterday in a talk at the state convention of the Ohio Bar association at Cedar Point.

Warner, chairman of the association's legislative committee, blamed the legislature's disorganization on a divided leadership.

Marion Delegates

The county bar association was represented at the meeting by Grant E. Mouser, president of the Marion County Bar association, W. P. Moloney, J. M. Strellitz and Fred W. Warner as delegates and Paul Michel, Theodore Ochs and Kenneth Robinson as alternates. A number of other local attorneys including Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr., went to Cedar Ponit today.

Election of a new president, the address of United States Senator Simeon D. Fess and discussion of a new uniform municipal court law and the jury code, took a large share of the attention of the convention yesterday.

Although the election of Judge Walter Ryan of Cincinnati to succeed President Phil S. Bradford was generally conceded as the sessions opened, it was seen possible by many members that J. B. Dworken of Cleveland might oppose him. Dworken has contended that the association has not been giving enough attention to the welfare of its members, and it is on this contention that it is thought he may seek the vote of the younger members and split the convention.

The uniform municipal court law came before the convention when a group of delegates asked President Bradford to name a committee to cooperate with the Ohio judicial council in framing the law. The action of the group followed a discussion led by Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall of the Ohio supreme court and Judge John P. Dempsey of Cleveland

May Need Changes

Success of the new Ohio taxation law was predicted yesterday by Senator Earl R. Lewis of Belmont county, majority leader in the upper house of the assembly. He added, however, that the law may require revision after some experience, and that Governor White's selection of a new member of the tax commission not hostile to it would be important.

Senator Lewis said the legislature's reduction of taxes on real estate would bring them down $10,000,000 immediately, and in greater amounts later, as more intangible property is listed on the tax duplicate. He told how the legislature had trimmed the state executive budget $16,000,000 and stated that Governor White could possibly reduce it further.

When questioned by Frank S. Monnett, former Ohio attorney general, about the influence of the lobby, in the last legislature, in preventing increases in public utility taxation, Senator Lewis said he did not believe it had accomplished much. He added that "lobbyists were so thick during the session that members often could scarcely get to their desks.

TONGEE BANISHES STOMACH MISERIES

Great Physicians' Medical Formula Is Real Godsend To Stomach Sufferers

"People with a sick stomach usually feel sick all over, and their systems become so rundown in general that it can safely be said that anyone with an unhealthy stomach is only half-living." This statement was made recently in a health talk by The Tongee Man, who is meeting vast numbers of men and women of this vicinity every day at the Stump and Sams drug store here in Marion, where he is personally explaining the merits of this great new physicians' formula of nature's finest medical juices, called Tongee, which has benefitted thousands of people who were never helped before by any medicine or treatment.

"Tongee has proven vastly more effective in cases of stomach, liver and kidney disorders than any previously known remedy," further states The Tongee Man, "and druggists and laymen alike are declaring that it is taking the place of most older medicines. In this new day of science a medicine must first cleanse the system of old, toxic poisons, and this must be done through the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and then the same medicine must strengthen and invigorate these organs to more normal, healthy action. It takes a liquid compound to do these things. In making Tongee we selected the juices from the finest medical plants and herbs. It is made scientifically in one of the largest laboratories in America. No other medicine can possibly be like Tongee."

The extent to which this advanced medicine is helping the people of Marion has become the talk of the drug and medical trades of this section. The greatest benefits from Tongee comes to stomach sufferers. To them it is a Godsend. But it is not alone a stomach medicine. It is taken immediately after meals, thus working with the sufferers' own food, helping Nature do its work, and thus, Tongee also has a great beneficial effect upon the liver, kidneys and bowels, cleansing out quantities of impure substances, which frequently is the real cause all along of daily headaches, nervousness, back pains, night rising, gas bloating, indigestion, sour stomach and other distressing symptoms you never could account for.

Tongee will act as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys, thus helping to flush out quantities of impurity that may have become dammed up inside, causing yellowish complexion, skin eruptions and sharp pains in the region of the kidneys. This new medicine will bring you deep, sound, refreshing sleep, and will make your liver more active and clear away old bile, thus helping to relieve spells of billiousness and sick headaches.

The Tongee Man is at the Stump and Sams drug store, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and

NOT A GOOD BOY

Because Violet Walker, 19, really did not look very much like a husky male hitch-hiker, her dream of transporting herself in that modern manner from Buffalo, N. Y., to Texas was spoiled by a vigilant Philadelphia policeman. When haled before a magistrate with her two bonafide boy companions, Violet, shown as a "boy," said she ran away from home when her husband deserted her.

BROWN SPEAKS AT CLUB MEET

Chamber of Commerce Executive Addresses Marion Luncheon Group.

Taking as the theme of his talk, the building of a city, W. D. Brown, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce was the speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Marion club yesterday.

In the building of a city as in the building of any industry or business, there are no accidental successes, the speaker said. The successful city as the successful business, is made possible only by the coordination and the cooperation of every person who is a part of it.

The citizen who attends strictly to his own business, is not a good citizen, the speaker declared. The good citizen is the person who can forget his own business long enough to make the interests of the city his business.

To Have Picnic

The 30 children selected by the undernourished child committee of the Kiwanis club to be guests of the club at the summer camp this year, but who will be deprived of that pleasure by the changing of the club plans, will not be wholly deprived of a good time, due to a plea made by Dr. F. J. Hunter, chairman of the committee at the weekly luncheon meeting of the club at the Marion club yesterday noon.

Just what the nature of the good time will be has not yet been determined, but that it will include a picnic and possibly an attendance at an exhibition of the trained animal show to be a feature of the Chautauqua the week of July 19, was intimated yesterday.

The action of the club directors in using the money intended for the camp to purchase milk for the undernourished children and for any other purpose that will help a greater number, was given the hearty endorsement of the club members yesterday. A committee consisting of A. W. Kette, Dr. Hunter and Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, was appointed by A. C. Queen, president of the club, to have charge of the expenditure of the money.

The urgent need of money for the milk fund was emphasized by H. B. Walker, president of the Family Welfare society, who told club members of a number of cases which he, as president of the society, had visited and which he said was in vital need of such help as would be provided by such a fund.

One case, a widow with two small children both of whom are suffering from anemia, was told of by Mr. Walker. Both children, he said, were threatened with tuberculosis and, upon a visit to the state tuberculosis hospital at Mt. Vernon, the mother had been told by physicians that the children must have all the milk they can drink, if tuberculosis is to be prevented. The widow has no money, he said, and is able to obtain barely enough to buy the commonest of food.

The situation facing the various welfare and relief societies this winter, was termed serious by the speaker. He said welfare agencies would be required to help twice as many persons this winter as last

COLLEGE PICTURE COMING TO MARION

Advertised as a picture based on the diary of an anonymous college girl, "Confessions of a Co-Ed" comes to the Palace Saturday and Sunday with Phillips Holmes, Sylvia Sidney and Norman Foster in the leading roles. Miss Sidney was the star of the Broadway production, "Bad Girl" and featured with Gary Cooper in "City Street."

Holmes is an ex-Princeton man and Foster is an alumnus of Georgia Tech. Girls from the University of California, Stanford University and Mills college played the extra roles to lend authentic "atmosphere."

Joe Christy will preside as master of ceremonies for the stage show for which has been billed Billy Culliton and his collegians, Christy and his company and Ross Lewis and his Radio Dolls. Lewis will be remembered as the man who played his act four weeks at the old Grand theater.

PALACE PICTURE GOOD FOR LAUGHS

Check another hit for director Norman Taurog with "Forbidden Adventure," closing at the Palace tonight. Here's another of the scarcer-than-hen-teeth family pictures. The grownups in the audience last night laughed as loud and as long as the kids at the four comedians, Edna May Oliver, Louise Fazenda, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl.

Louise visits her old crossroads home and her old friend Edna, after her son Jackie is a movie star at $4,000 a week. Edna can't stand the unholy flaunting of wealth by Louise and starts to Hollywood pronto with Mitzi. Of course Mitzi becomes a star. Both mothers leave for Europe, lording it over each other, to meet King Max, played by Bruce Line who is quite a likeable youngster and his queen mother, Virginia Hammond. The kids bring about the meeting all right but the king and Mitzi and Jackie have one round of "forbidden adventure" in running away and playing riverfront "toughs." You'll enjoy this picture, and the children will love it. It's that kind of a show. A newsreel, travel picture and comedy complete the bill. H. H.

WE'VE TOLD ONLY PART OF THE STORY!

DAY by day throughout the month of June we told you that we were offering the most outstanding values in more than a decade. And in our advertising we've shown you daily many specific examples to illustrate our statement. This is but a fragment of the story. Our stocks contain thousands of items, and on the average our prices have declined at least 20% in the past year, and of course, many have declined considerably more than that. Interestingly enough, many of the most sensational declines have occurred in the past three months. So read about the values on this page—but remember there are thousands of others in every department of this popular store.

Sets Up Claim

A second best lien in the form of a ... judgment against property involved in the foreclosure suit of C. D. Schaffner, receiver of the Citizens Building & Loan Co. against Lulu B. Sloan and others is claimed by the Marion Grain & Supply Co. in an answer filed in common pleas court yesterday. The law firm of Clark & Arter represents the supply company.

Files Motion

It was erroneously reported in the Thursday issue of The Star that Glenna Brown had filed a motion in common pleas court to strike the petition of Howard Dill, plaintiff, in an action against Glenna Brown from the court records. Instead a motion was filed by Dill asking the court to strike from the files the defendant's motion to reform the petition. Dill also asks that the defendant be required to answer on or before July 18. The law firm of Wilhelm & Robinson represents Dill in the case. The action was brought by Dill to collect wages.

The fact that forty-seven lawyers are charged with participation in the Chicago sanitary district pay roll scandals doesn't afford occasion for surprise, even assuming that all of them may be found guilty. Bituminous Coal Industry Conference

The exact status of the strike in the eastern Ohio bituminous coal area remains uncertain, though there is more reason to believe that the strikers are preparing to go back to work than there was formerly.

Today, a conference of bituminous coal operators called by Secretary of Commerce Lamont will meet to discuss ways and means of helping the industry. It is the latest attempt of the government to use its power in behalf of what every one admits is a sick industry. The action is reminiscent of other mediations of the government in the coal industry.

In 1902 President Roosevelt forced arbitration in an anthracite strike which had been in progress for five years and was threatening the nation's coal supply. In 1906 he urged settlement of anthracite and bituminous strikes, but without avail. The strikes were settled later, without further intervention.

In 1913-14 President Wilson first tried mediation, and later dispatched troops to the Colorado coal fields to settle a strike. In 1919 the Wilson administration, through Attorney General Mitchell Palmer, filed an injunction forbidding participation in the bituminous coal strike, the injunction being attained under an act enabling the government to control foods and fuels during the World war. In 1920 a commission appointed by President Wilson averted an anthracite strike.

President Harding intervened in 1922 to settle anthracite and bituminous strikes and suggested the creation of the United States coal commission to study the mining industry. President Coolidge assisted in settling the anthracite strike in 1923. In 1927 the government took no part in settling the bituminous strike.

There is ample precedent for federal intervention in mining strikes.

Newly-Discovered Heavenly Body.

The announcement from Kyoto, Japan, of the discovery by the observatory there of a celestial body calculated to be 11,000 miles in diameter at a distance of 150,000,000 miles from the earth has been received with incredulity by the astronomical world outside Japan. There is very general agreement that it is improbable that a celestial body of the size indicated which is away from our planet less than twice the distance from the earth to the sun could so long have escaped discovery. It might be said that it is more than improbable; that it is impossible.

A diameter of 11,000 miles would mean that the planet claimed to have been discovered by the Kyoto astronomers is almost three times the size of our own planet or Venus and that it would present to vision a surface almost twice the size of that presented by the earth and fully twice that of Venus.

The Kyoto cable speaks of the newly-discovered body as a planetoid. One or more planetoids are discovered yearly. Some years many have been discovered. At present more than 900 are known to the scientists. Isn't is just possible that a cipher or possibly two have been mistakenly added in transmitting the cable; that the diameter of the newly-discovered body is 1,100 miles, or 110 miles? The latter would come nearer the size of a plane-

The Situation in Detroit.

Detroit is beginning to realize that the seed it sowed last winter and spring in caring for those of its citizenship who were in need, or pretended to be, may produce very bitter and unpalatable fruit. It is dawning upon the city that by expending $18,000,000 by way of a municipal dole and causing a treasury deficit of $14,500,000 to meet its unemployment problem it did not engender a feeling of gratitude on the part of a large element of the beneficiaries of the dole, but simply laid the foundation for further demands—demands which in their scope exceed any thus far made by the red element of any American city.

Something like a thousand Communists gathered at the Detroit city hall, Wednesday, denounced the city council and the city welfare workers and demanded that a fund of $100,000,000 be created for the city's unemployed. To raise this vast fund it was suggested by their spokesmen that the city stop payment on its bonded indebtedness, its floating indebtedness of $62,000,000, and all other debts, cut the pay of its police force fifty per cent. and reduce the salaries of all officials who drew more than $3,000 annually to that amount.

But the communistic demands did not stop with that. They included free gas, free electricity, free water, free food, free milk, free clothing, free medical attention and dental care and the taking over by the city of all vacant hotel and private rooms for the occupancy of the unemployed. There was a further stipulation that each single man out of work was to receive $10 a week with proportionate increases for heads of families, and that there was to be no "forced" labor; in other words that no one receiving the benefits demanded was to be asked to work in payment for them.

Even the Detroit communistic element must have realized that had their program for living off others stopped there it would have been fairly "liberal" from their viewpoint, but they went on and demanded that a ten per cent. personal assessment valuation amounting to $60,000,000 be tured over to their "Council of the Unemployed" and that there be what would amount to a redistribution of personal wealth by which no one would be permitted to possess more than $25,000. It is to be assumed, of course, that this restriction would not apply to leaders in the red cause.

With the mayor of the city and the city council at odds over relief work and the mayor disposed to give out money with a free hand, the outlook in Detroit is not a pleasant one. There are at present 132,000 individuals on the city's welfare rolls, not counting the single man contingent which is putting in its time making demonstrations similar to that of Wednesday. In its budget, the city has planned to keep its deficit in welfare work down to $7,000,000, but how it is going to do it is a problem considering the existing drain on its finances with no opportunity to recuperate its funds. There has been talk of state relief and county relief and talk of the prospect of remote federal relief, but it is talk only.

At this distance it looks as though what Detroit should first do is to get rid of a city executive who has been holding out to the world that nobody shall go unfed or unsheltered in that city, which is nothing more than an invitation to the shiftless from near and afar to flock to the city to get in on an easy thing As the next step, the people of Detroit should exercise sense in electing his successor.

Mayor George L. Baker, of Portland, Oregon, who achieved fame as a member of the party of mayors who visited France as the guests of the French government by delivering an address at the tomb of France's "Unknown Soldier" and about everywhere else where opportunity offered, has returned to the United States and, sad to say, shows no indication of having yet run down.

Alaska Included.

In keeping with the statement of Senator Borah, of Idaho, that it was his observation that congressional junkets always headed north in hot wather and south in cold, word comes from Washington that members of the sub-committee of the house committee on appropriations will extend their present tour of national parks and reclamation projects to include a trip to Alaska

The sub-committee, to which is committed the drafting of the interior department appropriation bill, will send to Alaska Representative Murphy, of this state; Byrns, of Tennessee; Luce, of Massachusetts; Hastings, of Oklahoma, and Smith, of Idaho.

The itinerary of the sub-committee's tour includes Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado; the Grand Valley reclamation project, Colorado; Zion National park, Utah; Boulder Canyon project, Nevada; Sequoia National park, California; Yosemite National park, California; Orland reclamation project, California; Klamath reclamation project, Oregon; Crater Lake National park, Oregon; McKinley National park, Alaska; Kittitas project, Washington; Yakima reclamation project, Washington; Grand Teton National park, Wyoming, and Riverton reclamation project, Wyoming.

Certainly, the job of making our country's laws is not without its compensations. It isn't everybody who is paid at the rate of $10,000 a year while traveling about viewing nature's beauty spots.

The headline over a story from South Bend, Indiana, stated that a nineteen-year-old youth out there had been given a prison sentence of forty-five years for stealing ninety cents and an automobile, but failed to state that he had fought three separate and distinct gun battles with the police in one of which the girl with him was fatally wounded. Possibly banditry and gun battles are so common out that way that the headliner didn't consider them worthy of mention.

Report comes from Paris, where the North Atlantic conference is in session, that beginning next October the first-class passenger fares on all the big liners operating between Europe and New York are almost certain to be cut twenty-five per cent. Maybe it would be good business for all of us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs

A STUDY IN THOUGHTFULNESS.

Editorial Opinion.

HATS LOOK BETTER

The hatless season and the stockingless season, which run concurrently, are now in full blast. Men, especially the younger ones in full possession of their hair, are prone to go about uncovered; and ladies of all ages strip off their thin silk hose.

To go hatless is a fad, and to go stockingless is a fad, too. A fad is a practice which has no basis in reason, but is only an exercise of the faddist's whim. A man does not go bare-headed because he feels appreciably cooler without a hat; he does it because other men, whose fancy in dress he admires, go bare-headed. Whether he looks better or worse without a hat does not enter his calculations. And the ladies without stockings—they pursue the same irrational course.

The man who goes hatless does his job to depress a great industry, so does the woman who goes stockingless. In their more reasonable interval, when they were buying hats and stockings regularly, they encouraged the expansion of these industries. They are responsible for their magnitude. And, anyway, most men look better in hats. All women look better in stockings.— Toledo Blade.

EASY ON THE EYES.

North America's position in the temperate zone presupposes a temperate climate with a moderate amount of sunlight. Yet the optometrists of the nation believe that we have enough sunlight to warrant the use of blue and green sidewalks and buildings to temper the glare and benefit the eyes.

In tropic countries where the sun beats down unmercifully for days at a time, the natives have instinctively protected their eyesight by tinting the outside of stone or plaster houses in delicate colors. But in the tropics there is also an abundance of natural verdure to provide relief.

Any one who has lived in Detroit long enough to see the tree-lined streets of twenty years ago give way to stretches of unshaded pavement and sidewalk know that here we have comparatively little green within the city itself. Painted wooden houses, gray stone and the mellow tones of old brick made the residential districts more restful to the eye. But there are plenty of spots in town where whiteness dazzles.

To be sure, we are not accustomed to having baby-blue sidewalks and apple-green buildings about us. At first thought the idea of them seems ridiculous. But any one who has ever walked in the blazing sunlight toward a white building surrounded by a wide cement plaza should welcome anything to mitigate the blinding effect. We should not need science to tell us that blue and green are gentle color, since nature has already given us the cue in the verdant hue of trees, grass and plants beneath a cerulean sky.—Detroit Free Press.

"SAPS."

The Hungarian who lived on the fat of the land, at the expense of wealthy Americans, while posing as a baron, has been boasting about how easy it all was. And his boasts have caused one federal judge to mutter: "What saps we humans are!"

Saps? Maybe. But don't forget that the Americans whom the bogus baron bilked had plenty of money when he began to get in his work, and had plenty left after he got through trimming them. And don't forget, either, that the smart Hungarian, who admits he is so much cleverer than his victims, is not only penniless, but is going on a long journey —to the jail house for violating a parole.

It does not take much cleverness to get into jail. Almost anybody can do it, with a little persistence But it does take something or other to acquire a lot of money, as the "baron's" victims had done, by means which do not expose the acquirer to any danger of jail Maybe these folks were saps, but as the judge says. And maybe not. — Minneapolis Journal.

Addison's Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In 1865 Addison published the first report of an ailment now known as "Addison's disease." This condition is extremely rare. At the Mayo clinic during the past twenty years only 115 cases of this disease have been seen.

The disease is characterized by marked muscular weakness, with attacks of nausea and vomiting. However, the most characteristic sign is the unusual pigmentation of the skin.

This change of color of the skin is usually noticed first by friends of the patient. The skin may change in color, anywhere from a light yellow to a deep brown or even black. This discoloration may at first be confined to the face and hands, but ordinarily it spreads all over the body.

When marked weakness is present, the patient should not be permitted to be up and about. Sudden exertion or severe muscular exercise should not be practiced.

Many cases are now successfully treated. Indeed, great advances have been made in the past ten years regarding diseases previously of mysterious origin, particularly those involving the internal glands.

No definite treatment has as yet been established. The general treatment must include abundant rest, warmth and complete relaxation.

Persons suffering from Addison's disease require complete freedom from work and worry. They must not be permitted stress or strain of any kind. It is quite important to observe this rule as drastic results occur when these simple precautions are overlooked.

The care required for these cases is best obtained in an institution. Cases of Addison's disease are less likely to recover when treated at home. These patients require such scientific care and study as can only be obtained at a hospital.

From the results observed in recent investigations there is great hope that a practical and successful form of treatment may soon be achieved. Let us hope so

Jeans on Scientific Problems.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Today the world is fortunate in having a great army of scientists at work, incessantly and in countries scattered all over the globe engaged in discovering hitherto hidden laws and secrets of the universe. It is likewise extreme,y fortunate in having a number of scientists highly gifted with powers of exposition. Notable in any age would be such lucid expositors as Jeans, Eddington, Russell, Millikan and Shapley. These and other scientists explain, with brilliancy, clarity and skill, the most abstruse scientific problems, often making them immediately understood by the man in the street.

For instance, consider the tidal theory of Jeans, which is a development of the ideas worked out by the famous American scientists, Chamberlin and Moulton. These latter developed a theory known as the planetesimal theory. It was given a somewhat different and extended treatment by Sir James Jeans.

The Laplace theory, known as the nebular hypothesis, broke down because it was found for one thing, that it takes two bodies, at least, to create the configuration of a central luminary around which planets revolve. A wandering star came close to the sun and pulled from it by gravitational attraction huge filaments of matter. What happened to these filaments? An actual study of this process, going on at this very time in remote parts of the universe, answers the question. These immense filaments drawn from the sun broke up, condensed into colossal drops—much as steam, in the open air, will condense into drops. The force at work in the formation of the solar planets, however, was gravitation only. These huge drops began to revolve around the sun, under the influence of gravity, and gradually took on a spherical or nearly spherical form

The question is often asked whether life is exceedingly prevalent throughout the universe A statistical study seems to indicate that life will occur in the universe where two bodies, acting gravitationally upon each other, forms a solar system. This will happen when two bodies approach very near to each other, as in the tidal theory This is so rare as to be almost negligible It may be illustrated by imagining a room in which there were only three particles of dust. After a star has existed for millions upon millions of years, the chances against its being a sun surrounded by planets is about 100,000 to one The conclusion to be drawn, therefore, is that life is something very exceptional in the universe.

James Jeans was born in London in 1877. Educated at Trinity college, Cambridge, he there displayed proficiency as a mathematician, being second wrangler in 1898 and Smith's prizeman in 1900. He is well known in this country, having been professor of applied mathematics at Princeton from 1905 to 1909. Returning to England, he served as Stokes lecturer at Oxford. Again we find him as associate at Mt. Wilson observatory in 1928 He is fellow and secretary of the Royal society, received its royal medal in 1919, and was also awarded the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical society in 1922 On May 20, 1931, he was awarded the Franklin medal of the Franklin institute in this country for having done most during a single year to advance the knowledge of physical science or its applications —Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Mysterious Turkestan Shrine.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

If a cynic should ever tell you that there are no fascinating places left on the earth that have not been trampled by the feet of innumerable tourists just look at him, smile and think of Ordam Padshah in Turkestan.

For here, indeed, is an adventure worthy of the courage of any Occidental. Ordam Padshah is a Mohammedan shrine and only five white men have ever seen it.

The faithful among the Mohammedans consider it second only to Mecca as a place of pilgrimage, as a blessed spot to pay obeisance to their god. Here it was that in the eleventh century the forces of Mahomet and Buddah met to decide which religion was to prevail in their part of the earth.

Ordam Padshah is surrounded by dunes and sandhills and even if the road is opened to you by the friendship of the Turkestan officials and the pilgrims, it is difficult to reach. The trip across the desert is usually made in two days.

At intervals one passes little praying stations set off in the desert by little walls of stones and consecrated for the pilgrims approaching or leaving the sacred city.

When finally reached, Ordam Padshah is likely to disappoint. Here is no beauty, no loveliness, at least not to western eyes. The architecture is unpretentious, the streets are unpaved.

It is amazing that for centuries millions of Mohammedans have journeyed from all the far corners of the Orient to reach this simple little settlement.

Besides the usual mosques, Ordam Padshah contains one of the world's most curious monuments. This is a sheaf of poles and sticks brought by pilgrims This soars over sixty feet into the air and measures over 500 feet in circumference. It marks the spot where Ali Arslan, a Moslem soldier, was slain while fighting against Chinese Buddhist forces.

J. M. SCHNEIDER DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

Marion City Councilman Claimed Quietly in Bed Some Time in Night

who live at the Schneider residence were not at home when he returned last night, and do not know what time he retired. The bedclothing and his position in the bed, showed that he had died easily and without a struggle.

Mr. Schneider was owner of a shoe store here for many years, but retired from the business 15 years ago. He was at one time a stockholder in the Merkel Implement Co. Six years ago he served on the board which reappraised city property.

Mr. Schneider had been master of finance in Canby Lodge No. 51 K. of P., for 27 years. He was an officer of the lodge when the late President Warren G. Harding was given the ritualistic work of the order. He also served as secretary of the transient relief committee of the lodge. He was a member of Salem Evangelical church, Druids lodge and of Marion Co. No. 15, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias.

Born in 1861

Mr. Schneider had married twice. His first wife, Mrs. Emma Wolfinger Schneider, died in 1904. Mrs. Hannah Fields Schneider to whom he was married Jan. 8, 1920, preceded him in death in 1928. He had no children.

Surviving him are his brother and sisters, Christ Schneider of Cincinnati, Mrs. Lena Haeberle of Cleveland, Mrs. J. R. Lotshar of Columbus and Mrs. Clara Watzel of 796 east Center street.

Besides his nephew, Herman J. Seckel, who lived at the Schneider home, he left two other nephews, Ted Seckel of Columbus and Carl M. Haeberle of New York.

He was born Feb. 2, 1861, in Marion county to John and Louise Meyers Schneider, both natives of Germany.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m., at the home. Rev. Paul H. Bourquin, pastor of Salem Evangelical church will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may view the body tonight at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street. The body will be removed to the Schneider home Saturday morning and may be viewed there until funeral time.

THE WORLD'S DIFFERENT money situations are strange. Germany begs for credit to keep her industries alive. We respond with $100,000,000, which isn't difficult, for we have so much money we don't know what to do with it.

In Wall street yesterday, money lent as low as one-half of one per cent a year, on first-class acceptances. Stock exchange loans were at 1½ per cent, private bankers lent at 1 per cent.

Who understands finance? Nobody.

GLOBE GIRDLERS ARE WELCOMED AT HOME

Little Oklahoma Town Turns Out Enmasse To Receive Post, Gatty.

By The Associated Press

CHICKASHA, Okla., July 10—Wiley Post and his Australian navigator, Harold Gatty, have received the praise of the pilot's home folks for their flight around the world in a little more than eight days.

Both responded modestly to the homage accorded them late yesterday in this little southwestern Oklahoma town. It was here Post became acquainted with F. C. Hall, wealthy oil man who sponsored the tour of the globe-girdling plane Winnie Mae.

Today they were to be received in Oklahoma City, the state capital, which they left unobtrusively a month ago to begin the flight.

The fliers, accompanied by their wives and Mr. Hall, arrived here in two planes from Columbus, O., at 2:32 p. m., yesterday. Post's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post, reached the air field from their farm home as the two were posing for photographs.

"Wiley, bless your heart, you blessed thing," the mother said, kissing and embracing him. "I never was so happy in my life."

Mrs. Post fainted after she reached the reviewing stand, but was revived shortly.

The father welcomed his taciturn son silently. He grasped Wiley's hand without a word and then shook hands with Gatty.

"I can't express my feelings," he said.

Post's sister and five brothers were in the crowd that hailed the fliers as heroes. Governor William H. Murray and Senator T. P. Gore spoke at the official reception. A parade and banquet followed.

MUSSOLINI ANXIOUS FOR DISARMAMENT

Shortest Road to Economic Recovery, Mussolini Tells Secretary Stimson.

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 10—The talks he had with Premier Mussolini and foreign minister Dina Grandi yesterday were eminently satisfactory to Colonel Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, he said this morning.

"They furthered one purpose I had in coming to Europe," Colonel Stimson explained, "that is, to form my own impressions concerning conditions here. The premier and Signor Grandi left nothing to be desired in the reception they gave me."

Tomorrow Colonel and Mrs. Stimson will leave Rome, probably going to Florence.

Premier Mussolini agrees with Mr. Stimson that world peace is the shortest road to economic recovery.

Universal disarmament, they believe, is the next milepost on the trail already blazed by the suspension of war debts and reparations for one year.

Il Duce in Interview

Mussolini granted one of his rare interviews to foreign correspondents last night, and communicated to them the import of his conference with Mr. Stimson.

"There are two roads—a road toward war and a road toward peace," he said. "I told Mr. Stimson that I have chosen the road toward peace. Mr. Stimson and I find ourselves in accord in choosing that road.

"Italy, for her part, will go to the next disarmament conference with a sincere desire for peace. In order to solve the economic problem it is necessary to solve the political crisis and that of morale. The success of the disarmament conference is indispensable so that the people may have faith in their government. The people must not be disillusioned."

Arms reductions should be discussed at Geneva next February in terms of principles rather than terms of guns and tons, he said.

Italy is disposed to accept the lowest figure of armament—even a limit of 10,000 rifles for all Italy," He continued, "provided no other nation has more. Of course, if any other nation had more such a reduction would be placing Italy in the position of defending herself with a club against a pistol.

Expresses Optimism

"I have a great optimism over the prospects of economic recovery during the coming years, especially if the disarmament conference is a success. Disarmament success would clear the horizon which would be obscured if the conference does not produce results. The date must not be postponed."

OFFICIAL WILL FACE GRAND JURY ACTION

Ashland County Commissioner Pleads Not Guilty to Drunkeness Charge.

By International News Service

ASHLAND, O., July 10—As a result of drunkenness and disorderly conduct filed against County Commissioner Fremont Wallace by a cook at the county home, official circles in Ashland county today speculated over the outcome of the case when it goes to the grand jury.

When summoned before Justice of the Peace M. O. Poorman, Commissioner Wallace, through his attorneys, entered a plea of not guilty, waived the hearing and asked to be bound over to the grand jury. The motion was sustained.

Although the affidavit against the commissioner was filed by Mury Krieger, Superintendent J. C. Shannonon and several employes of the home were said to be ready to testify in the case. The commissioner was charged with being intoxicated when he visited the county home.

Prosecutor H. E. Cilbertson was expected to summon the May grand jury, which has not yet been called, to consider the commissioner's case, along with several others.

Marion Man Arrested for Mt. Gilead Officers

Perry Ihrig of 295 Latourette street was arrested early last night by Deputy Sheriff M. E. Baldwin for Morrow county authorities, who want him on a petit larceny charge. He was taken to Mt. Gilead by Deputy Sheriff J. P. Bennett of Morrow county, who said Ihrig is charged with the theft of a $35 watch.

MERMAIDS DESERT WATER FOR AIR

In this age of travel through the clouds, even the mermaids are flying or, as it might be put, 'tis m-air-maids they are. Anyway the sky seems to be the limit for the 1931 model bathing girl who is setting a new pace for summer resort-going. The photo shows a group of pretty hostesses on an Eastern Air Transport liner leaving Newark, N. J., airport for a day of fun down the coast.

BENDER UNDER FIRE AS HEAD OF STADIUM

Cleveland Councilman Asks Removal as Result of Fraud Charges.

CLEVELAND, July 10 — Ouster proceedings against George H. Bender, manager of the Cleveland municipal stadium, who was recently acquitted of a charge of embezzling funds of the Ohio law enforcement league, was asked last night by City Councilman John L. Mihelich.

The councilman told City Manager Daniel E. Morgan that the stadium had been given a "black eye" by current charges that a former political associate of Bender and a suspended stadium employe had taken money from a number of persons to get them jobs as ushers for the Schmeling-Stribling championship fight. Mihelich said the embarrassment the charges have created could have been prevented by proper management.

The city manager yesterday decided to investigate charges that jobs were promised each usher applicant who paid $1.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS ATTACK MORATORIUM

Hitler Forces Charge Plan Continues Versailles Treaty in Different Form.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 10—Germany's radical elements are massing their forces for an attack on the Hoover moratorium in the belief that it bulwarks the treaty of Versailles.

Delegates of all parties opposed to Chancellor Bruening's government met last night to consider ways and means of combatting what they termed "the attempt of those now in power to continue the policy of fulfillment of the Versailles treaty under veiled forms."

Adolf Hitler, leader of the national Socialists, and Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist chieftain, both of whom have expressed skepticism that the debt holiday would aid Germany, dominated the deliberations.

Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, told a Nationalist meeting in Hanover, that he would have approved the Hoover offer if it had subscribed to these conditions:

First, if immediately after its publication the terrible emergency decrees which are bleeding the German people had been abolished and second, if the plan had been headed, 'This is the beginning of the end of the shameful treaty of Versailles'"

The Hitler and Hugenberg press were cold toward the Hoover holiday when first announced, some papers asserting it would not materially affect the economic status of the Reich and others saying it would only postpone the evil day of collapse.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 11

UNDER the impetus of fairly fortunate sidereal tokens this day should be fairly lively but in the old-fashioned lines rather than in new ventures and employment. All pertianing to letters, writings, publishing and promotion may meet with a degree of financial return and personal prestige. The mind may be serious and prone to contemplate profound propositions. Personal matters may prove entertaining.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a fairly active and prosperous year, especially if old lines are adhered to and new projects postponed. All pertaining to writings, publishing and promotion is under fair financial promise. Employment may give some minor anxieties, but private affairs will compensate. A child born on this day should be versatile, intellectual, and ambitious and have many social graces and accomplishments, all uniting for a successful career.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, July 10—W. Z. Graves, 60, retired hardware merchant and former councilman, died at Grant hospital in Columbus, today at 5 a. m. He was taken critically ill last night and was rushed to the hospital. His condition was too serious to perform an operation. He had been ill the last two years.

Surviving him is his wife, Mrs. Mae Graves and their daughter, Miss Violette Graves, at home, and a son Floyd Graves of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Mr. Graves owned a hardware store here for many years, until two years ago when he retired. He served as city councilman several terms.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home in charge of Rev. Mr. Haas, assisted by Rev. Mr. Woodward. Burial will be made in the Cardington cemetery.

MINE PARLEY FAILS

Cabinet Officials and Operators Unable to Agree on Program.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 10—The distressed situation in the bituminous mining industry has been brought to the attention of the federal government by both operators and miners.

Members of the National Miners union paraded in front of the White House yesterday shortly after operators of three states had concluded a lengthy conference with Secretaries Lamont and Doak. The operators and the chief of the commerce and labor departments failed to agree on a general coal conference of all elements of the industry. Secretary Lamont announced later that "little could be accomplished" at this time.

The parading miners were prevented from halting in front of the executive mansion and banners they carried were seized by police. Frank Borich, secretary of the union, however, presented to Theodore Joslin, one of President Hoover's secretaries, a protest against the conference between the two cabinet officers and the mining operators.

WASHINGTON, July 10—Secretary Doak today called a conference of mine union labor leaders to meet at the labor department on Monday, July 13.

ASSOCIATION NAMED IN WILL OF INDIAN

Harding Memorial Group Notified of Bequest; Amount Not Revealed.

The Harding Memorial association has been named a beneficiary in the will of the owner of a Cheyenne River Indian estate in South Dakota, according to word received here by French Crow, postmaster. Crow turned the information over to Hoke Donithen, chairman of the executive committee of the association.

Word of the bequest came from Paul L. Hallam, examiner of inheritance with the United States department of the interior, bureau of Indian field service.

No indication of the size of the bequest was given by Hallam. Relatives of the benefactor whose name was not given, are seeking to contest the will, a letter from Hallam said. Chairman Donithen has written for more complete information regarding the will.

FIRST WHEAT SOLD

Hardin County Crop Opens Season at 45 Cents.

KENTON, July 10—The first consignment of Hardin county wheat to reach the elevators was reported at the Laubis & Son elevator at Hepburn.

Two hundred bushels of new wheat were received from Dan Heilman and John Hastings, farmers of east of Kenton who are harvesting their crops with the use of combines. The grain was purchased for 45 cents a bushel, or about one-half the price offered at the start of the 1930 wheat harvest. The grain was of good weight and quality.

PLENTY OF AIRPORTS

By International News Service

JACKSON, Mich. — Emergency landing fields not more than 10 miles apart on every major highway within the next five years is the prediction of Major Floyd E. Evans, Michigan Aeronautics director. The prediction was made in an address before the Jackson Exchange club. Major James H. Doolittle, army speed pilot, stressed the importance of ground markers to aviators.

• • •

This is the seventh in a series of eight installments in a life story of Wiley Post, "globe galloper," written by Leon H. Durst, Associated Press feature writer.

• • •

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

WILEY POST was happy when the way was smoothed for the opportunity to make real the "biggest thing he could think of—that bug to go around the world."

With assurance of the financial backing of F. C. Hall, his Oklahoma friend, and the spontaneous cooperation of his navigator, Harold Gatty, Post went to work in earnest shaping things for the argosy he had "dreamed of for over four years."

The big moment had arrived for the young man who, as a farmer boy, had expressed his aviation bent by whittling out airplanes models. To Post the task of getting his sleek monoplane "Winnie Mae," in condition was the main objective. It was primarily the job of the meticulous Gatty to fuss with maps, charts, logarithms, and all these things a good navigator relishes.

Month's Preparation

To make perfect his plane Wiley spent a month at the air factory on the Pacific coast. The 425 horsepowered supercharged motor of his "Winnie Mae" was to be what he termed both his "mascot and good luck charm."

Upon its throbbing nine cylinders he lavished the mass of mechanical lore gleaned from working on all sorts of engines.

It was only a shell of the engine that carried him to victory in the 1930 national non-stop air derby from the Pacific coast to Chicago. Parts had been replaced only after they had been x-rayed, etched and microscopically studied.

"We spent as much money on it," Post said, "as a new engine would cost, but we wouldn't trade it for two new ones, I'm sure."

Increases Speed Capacity

To gain more speed, he worked out his own fuel carrying arrangement and altered the wing adjustment. The fuselage and five wing tanks served as gasoline receptacles. This moved the weight sufficiently to the front to permit what Post said would be easier handling, evener balance and better speed flying position.

Post saw no need for carrying either parachute or life raft. The food was limited to just a "few bites." Wiley sized up the situation this way:

"If we come down in the ocean—well, it'll be all over. Food won't do us any good."

Compasses for pilot and navigator were packed as well as other conventional instruments. There was also an "artificial horizon" and a "directional gyro" to aid in fog and other blind flying.

Above the place for Navigator Gatty in the back, a glass fitted hatch was cut in the wing to let in the sky.

Satisfied the plane was in the pink of perfection, Post and Gatty headed for Roosevelt field after about a day's sojourn in Washington.

Wiley went to the capital seeking permission to fly over Russia. This had been granted, however, while they were enroute. Wiley jokingly said, upon hearing this information, there was not much for them to do "but to let President Hoover have a chance to look over a couple of ambitious men."

They did talk, however, with Secretary Stimson of the state department, and proudly posed for pictures with the ranking cabinet officer.

To capital reporters Post said they were "going to fly around the world in 10 days, and maybe less." Post said plans showed 107 hours of flying time would be required. This was prophetic, the actual flying time being only a few hours less.

Speed Figured Accurately

They figured the ship would have an average cruising speed of 150 miles an hour. It did.

Wiley and his partner loitered at Roosevelt field several weeks waiting for Dr. James Kimball, of the U. S. weather bureau, to say all was well. Mechanics marveled at the mechanism of the "Winnie Mae." Every now and then Wiley, dubbed at the field the most "unworried man that ever flew across the Atlantic" gave his plane a casual look over, always leaving with a satisfied expression.

Then came the big moment the dawn of June 3. To Harbor Grace, N. F., they streaked. Mid-afternoon found Wiley Post Berlin bound over the Atlantic, real action in tempo with a long-cherished dream.

CHAPTER 34

Sheriff's Orders

The sheriff's office in the County ... house at Red Butte ... dingy room with a ... desk enclosing a ... corner which afforded ... privacy to the safe ... sheriff's desk. There ... leading into the jail, ... doors leading to the ... office and to the ... of the building and ...

... of the room con... number of very plain ... chairs, several ... to mean capacity, and ... a water-cooler of generous proportions.

Through the window, looking toward the street, could be seen the buildings that composed the business section of the desert settlement. Their heads drooping in the early heat, a few ponies were tied to a hitching rack in front of a general merchandise store where their owners lignered. Seen between the scattered buildings, the desert stretched on and on, meeting the sky in the hazy distance.

Sheriff Billings, entering his office, greeted the under-sheriff, who was at his desk, with a cheery "Mornin', Pete."

"Good morning, Sheriff."

"Goin' to be another scorcher today," commented the sheriff, helping himself to a drink from the water-cooler.

"Sure is," agreed Pete.

The other contihued, "If we don't get some rain before long the country will just naturally dry up and blow away."

He stepped through the door of his private office to return an instant later without his hat. "Any word from Dripping Spring, Pete?"

"Not yet. Hank and Jeff should be comin' in to report any time now. They are due back this mornin' even if they had to go all the way to Blackwater Tanks."

"Yeah. They'd be ridin' nights this weather."

"Will and Stub have the easy end of this job. Autos beat horses."

"You mean some autos beat some horses sometimes."

The under-sheriff laughed. "Well, anyway, Will and Stub ought to be rollin' in pretty soon now, if they picked these men up anywhere between here and Gold Center. I can't believe though that Colorado Bill would be fool enough to try to go from the Tanks at Mother Mountain to Gold Center as dry and hot as it is right now."

"You never can tell. I reckon this lad who went out with Jimmie Harrigan is the one that Orchard Hill sheriff's telegram calls Pierre Donovan all right. I was talking to Kid Cameron about him. Kid brought him over from the station. Seems to be a nice boy, Kid says."

"Jimmie Harrigan must have taken to him. If that old desert rat hadn't liked him he'd a-seen him fryin' in hell before he'd a-guided him to Drippin' Spring or anywhere else."

The sheriff laughed. "That little old Irishman is as square as they make them, though."

"I'd hate to suggest that he wasn't!" chuckled the other. "Hello, Charlie!" The greeting was addressed to a man who at that moment entered the office with Antonio Latour and Ann Carey.

Charlie addressed the sheriff: "These people came in on the stage from Red Butte station this mornin'. They've been inquirin' after two fellers named Bruce Carey and Pierre Donovan. I told them mebby you could give 'em some information." He turned to Old Tony and Ann: "This is Sheriff Billings."

Ann started and drew back fearfully. The old actor, with an air of impressive dignity, bowed to the sheriff. Then turning to the man who had brought them to the office he demanded: "What does this mean, sir? Why have you brought us here? Are—are you an officer?"

Charlie grinned. "Just a deputy, that's all."

"Sit down, folks," said the sheriff kindly.

Ann dropped wearily into a chair. But Old Tony remained on his feet. "Does this mean, sir—is it possible that by any mischance we are under arrest?"

"Oh, no," returned the sheriff, "not exactly. But perhaps you had better tell us who you are and what brings you to Red Butte."

Reassured by the sheriff's kindly manner, Old Tony relaxed and seated himself in a chair beside Ann.

"This is Mrs. Bruce Carey. I am Antonio Latour. We—ah—we expected to meet Mrs. Carey's husband here in Red Butte. But there seems to be some mistake; Mr. Carey is not here."

Ann cried anxiously, "And Pierre, too, Father Tony." To the sheriff she added eagerly: "Do you know, sir, if a young man named Pierre Donovan has been here lately?"

At this moment the telephone rang. The under-sheriff answered, and while the others continued he received a message which he wrote down as it came to him over the wire.

"Yes, ma'am," said the sheriff "Pierre Donovan has been here. Also your husband, Bruce Carey—that is to say, we think that man who calls himself Fred Burnes is Bruce Carey."

The under-sheriff from behind the counter-desk handed the message which he had written to Charlie, who passed it on the the sheriff. When the sheriff had read the message he looked at Ann and Old Tony thoughtfully. At last he said, "This telegram from Orchard Hill will interest you, Mrs. Carey and Mr. Latour." He read the message.

Orchard Hill, Ohio.

To Sheriff Billings,
Red Butte, Nevada.

Mrs. Bruce Carey, Ann, 23, five foot four, weight 130, brown eyes, brown hair. Antonio Latour, about 60, height five foot ten, weight 140. Smooth shaven, faded blue eyes, white hair. If these parties appear in your county hold them and notify me.

BOLTON, Sheriff.

"Oh, but you can't," cried Ann. "We haven't done anything wrong. We can't be arrested for nothing."

To Be Continued.

See Couldn't EAT or SLEEP

"I feel like a new Woman"

ABOUT six months ago I was run down and a friend of mine told me about your medicine.

"I got a bottle and started taking it. I was so weak and nervous, my appetite wasn't good at all, I couldn't eat and of course I lost my strength. In fact I have never been healthy.

"After I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my nerves were lots better. I can sleep well and I have a real good appetite. I feel like a new woman." —Effie Oliver, Antler, Okla.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I WAS sorry when I woke up and got to thinking about Youniss being so sunburnt. I am glad I am not tender like a girl, and I am glad Youniss is not tough like me. Maggie who is a redhead got sunburnt too, but I didn't mind that so much.

I got up and let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and when I had went down and milked my cows and the bunch had came they were all telling about the good time they had in swimming without me or the girls around that I got sore, but I couldn't do anything. And then when I went in to feed my face before taking the cows out, there the girls were again with their bathing suits, but Younisses arms were all little blisters and so was her nose. She said she was going to go in swimming every day till she got tanned and didn't sunburn any more, but my mother told her the best way was to let her burns get well each time before she went in again. A boy's best friend is his mother.

Our yard is all full of cracks running every which way, from the heat. My mother said the best way would be for them to put the sprinkler on and play in their bathing suits in the shade of our tree. So we all took the cows out and left them there and went down to the lake, and then the bunch said to all let's go back to our house and play with the girls. I didn't want to but they said the girls was my company and I ought to treat them right, so we all went back and took the things out of our pockets and turned the hose on each other and had a good time.

The Lost Bag of Tripe took the sprinkler off and said he would bet he could hold the end of the hose in his mouth with the water turned on, so we turned it off and he held it in his mouth and I gave it all there was to give it and it hit him so sudden but he almost drownded and he was gasping and choking and coughing and Pushie was looking at him holding the hose when my ant said right behind me, "What's going on here?" and Pushie turned around so sudden that she squirted the hose all on my ant, and when my ant started to run in the house got her thumb on the hose to make it squirt and squirted her all [illegible] back steps, and [illegible] laughing and [illegible] the water down [illegible] end of [illegible] got on [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Avis Arlen Breaks-in on a "Farewell Scene."

WITHOUT appearing to do so, I watched Avis Arlen narrowly as I told her that she must give an engaged couple time to kiss each other good night. I did not know how much Noel had told her of his relation to Mary, and of course Marion's remark that Mary was "Noel's fiancee on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays" could be taken either as a jest or in earnest, as suited the mood of the auditor. That Avis Arlen would wish to consider it only as jest, I was very sure. But, I told myself grimly, she could not laugh away the comment I had just made.

She had been so utterly ruthless, so regardless of opinion in her open pursuit of Noel that I half expected her to show some sign of chagrin at my announcement, but I reckoned without the aplomb of our younger generation.

"Oh! Lovely fun!" she gurgled for the fourth or fifth time since her entrance and I made a mental computation of how many times she must use the expletive in the course of a day.

"No—el's been a naughty boy," she went on with a pout. "He has been holding out on Avis. We have had confidential talks this summer, just like brother and sister, you know—" She cast a demure look at me while her face took on what Dicky would term "that No. 35 Madonna look." "He has told me so much about his life and has spoken of Miss Harrison, of course, many times. He said she was so brilliant and that his father was planning to make her the most famous Veritzen star of all but, somehow, I got the impression that she had no time for love and romance, that all her mind was set upon her career. And he was engaged to her all that time! Naughty No—el! "Well—" she looked off into space with a tiny contraction of her darkened eyebrows. "I can understand why he wouldn't want to tell me about her."

Not an "Outsider!"

There was a certain note of smug satisfaction in her voice which made my fingers tingle with the desire to shake every hairpin out of her blonde curls. She meant me to believe, and I have no doubt she believed herself, that the reason Noel had not told her of his engagement to Mary was because he had succumbed to her blandishments and forgotten about his erstwhile sweetheart.

"Of course," I said quickly, "I know also why he did not tell you of his engagement. Noel is the type of high-principled sensitive man who considers a relationship of that kind too sacred for speech concerning it. He cannot help speaking of her brilliance, because he is so proud of her. But he would be the last person to flout his betrothal before an outsider." I hoped that she caught the delicately malicious stress I put upon the last word.

"Oh! but you mustn't call me an 'outsider' to No—el," she said with eyes widened like those of a child suddenly reproved. "I know No—el would never call me that. He may be engaged to Miss Harrison"—her voice contained a distinctly incredulous question mark—"but there is something between No—el and me very unusual—I can't explain it—but I am not an 'outsider' to No—el."

Her mothers musical well-bred voice came from the other door. "Avis! hurry up, dear! Mr. Veritzen is waiting." The girl took a step toward the door through which Noel and Mary had gone. "I'll call No—el," she volunteered smoothly.

"No, don't trouble yourself," I moved swiftly between her and the door for I knew that the next instant would see her interrupting the emotional farewell which Noel and Mary were exchanging. "I'll bring Noel. Go and tell your mother that he'll be with you directly."

She turned docilely enough, and walked toward her mother while I opened the door into the hall, taking care to make an undue amount of noise as I did so. But Noel and Mary were either too oblivious of everything else to hear me, or else counted so much upon my very real affection for them that they did not move from the close embrace in which he was holding her.

"I am sorry, deears," I said gaily, "but I'm a fraid you will have to hurry up this goodby. Your father, Noel, is getting very impatient and I had all I could do to keep Avis Arlen from coming out to think [illegible] at his bidding."

Truck, Car Collide at Street Crossing

A light truck belonging to William Scott of 474 Patton street was damaged and household goods scattered over the street when struck by a machine being driven by Mrs. Francis Smith of 128 Franconia avenue, at the intersection of west Center and Cayuga street yesterday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Scott was making the turn from Center to Cayuga street when the Smith car coming from the same direction attempted to pass him on the left and struck the truck.

M... ...ves are an old ...ne Marion couple ...r who ruined a per... honeymoon and rates ...meanest" gallery. ...couple, married a ...d on a week's trip ...they'd planned on seeing together. They came back in two days, dead broke.

An Akron hotel was one of the overnight stopping places and sometime during their stay, the young man was robbed of more than $100, the money saved for the trip.

After a day with relatives and arranging for money to come home on, the honeymoon was over and they were back in town

Old Hand's Views

THE glamour of the circus wasn't all in the big tent Tuesday night. Most interesting of all to the writer was a chat with one of the young men in charge of the elephants in the animal tent. He was the keeper at the moment of "Trilby" and "Jennie," the two biggest of the long string of elephants lining one end of the tent.

Generally, elephant keepers are not regarded as desirable companions, but we were sorry the show had to go on, and he had to load the pachyderms as soon as their stunt was over and make ready for the jump to the next city.

This young man, probably 25, has been in circus life more than 10 years, and has worked with the elephants of nearly every circus on the road. He has been astounded and highly amused over some of the questions circus-goers have asked him. One woman wanted to know how elephants breathe and how they masticated their food. She didn't know that an elephant has a mouthful of ivories and that their trunks take care of the breathing and drinking.

His enunciation and choice of words was better than that of the average young man. He told us that he had a sister in journalism and that some day he's going to give her the diary he keeps so carefully from day to day to write his story of the care and training of elephants. Some of the stories written about the big jingle brutes are a lot of the popular "bologna" to those who have worked with them for years, he said

No Glitter

"ALL is not gold that glitters" Perhaps this old axiom may be turned around to express the fact that a bargain is not always a bargain. Witness the experience of a Marion woman who, while on an out-of-town shopping trip, saw a very attractive bargain sale advertised. After due consideration, the woman purchased several articles, and returned home. The sad part now enters After a close examination, it was discovered that the purchases were entirely unsatisfactory. In addition to this, the woman also noticed the same article in one of the local stores for a lower price and of good quality, and realized that there was no practical means of obtaining an adjustment on her purchases.

IT PAYS to specify the name Kellogg's when purchasing corn flakes.

Here is the world's most popular ready-to-eat cereal. Costing only a few cents a package. Always ready to serve. No trouble or work. Delicious!

Indeed, what other foods offer you so much value? Kellogg's Corn Flakes are delightful for breakfast, for lunch, for children's suppers — and to enjoy as a bedtime snack.

Serve with milk or cream. Add fresh or canned fruits or honey. Extra easy to digest. Crisp and flavorful.

Wise buyers know that there is no substitute for genuine Kellogg's, the original Corn Flakes. Imitations never equal that Kellogg "wonder" flavor!

Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Oven-fresh in the patented waxtite wrapper. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Nutmeg Tree Expert Predicts Tree Pests

By International News Service

CANAAN, Conn.—The hill counties of western Massachusetts and northwestern and eastern New York may be swept by a tree pest this year, in the opinion of Dr. W. E. Britton, state entymologist. Known as the "Saddled Prominent," the pest made an outbreak on Canaan mountain last summer and a slight one in Kent. The last great attack occurred in 1917 and 1918 when it swept large sections of New York and New England. Dr. Britton finds the pest breaks out in two successive years in each case and subsides for several years. His observations lead him to believe a serious outbreak is nearing.

GOES TO JAIL

Gets Sentence for Disobeying Order of Court.

Michael Campbell, 27, of 244½ north Main street, whose license to drive an automobile was revoked by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin on April 20 for a period of six months, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, will spend the next 10 days in the county jail because he did not take with proper seriousness the order of the court.

Campbell, who was arrested while driving a car on north Greenwood street, told the police he was merely driving the machine to help a woman who had been caught in a traffic jam. It later developed, the police say, that he had driven a machine at least on one other occasion.

The case is the first of its kind to come before the court in several years and in passing sentence Judge Martin said any further violations of such an order would be dealt with still more severely. Campbell was taken to jail late yesterday afternoon to start his sentence.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

JUDGE OKAYS ASSESSMENTS

Says Commissioners Have Power To Correct Error Found After Hearing.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 10—Judge W. P. Vaughan Thursday dissolved an injunction restraining county officials from placing on the tax duplicate the assessments approved by the county commissioners against the landowners affected by the Cardington-Chesterville road. The injunction was granted when Charles F. George filed suit claiming that the commissioners methods of correcting an error in the assessments was illegal.

When the road assessments were approved originally after a public hearing the commissioners discovered that an error had occurred in the surveyors office in making out the amounts to be charged the townships of Harmony and Lincoln through which the road runs. The two townships had been assessed more than they could legally pay and in an effort to adjust the assessments the commissioners changed all amounts and did not deduct the full 17 per cent from the original assessments as George claimed they should since the road sold for that much less than the estimated cost.

Judge Vaughan in dissolving the injunction and approving the action of the commissioners stated that they had acted in all fairness and that the equities in the case were with them. He also made the statement that the commissioners had acted within their authority as if they had power to rebate assessments they undoubtedly had power to correct an error.

T. B. Mateer, George's attorney, states that the case will be carried to the appellate court on the grounds that the commissioners did not have such authority. The action of the commissioners in changing the assessments, he says could not legally be taken without a public hearing which the commissioners did not hold Judge Vaughan fixed the appeal bond at $100.

KEPLER AND RESTON BATTLE FOR CROWN IN OHIO AMATEUR

Florio Eliminated by Dayton Golfer in Semi-Final Match at Columbus.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 10—The finals of the state amateur golf championship today took on an intercollegiate all-Dayton hue.

Scotty Reston of Dayton, captain elect of the University of Illinois golf team, will match drives over the Wyandot club course with Bob Kepler, Dayton, No. 1 player on the Ohio State university niblick squad.

The Daytonians won their rights to the final round by triumphing in two of the most bitter contests ever written in Ohio golfing annals.

Reston squared off against Johnny Florio, the tournament favorite, in the semi final and was conceded an outside chance to win—a chance that changed to a remote possibility when Florio went one up at the third hole. Undismayed by the odds Reston stuck to his sticks and with a mighty rally squared the match on the twelfth, went one up on the fifteenth and then captured the match two and one on the seventeenth.

In the lower bracket match, Kepler took on Theron Green, the boy who eliminated Glenn Bishop, the defending champion, Wednesday, and despite the fact that Green had played consistent golf, the Ohio State star was figured an easy victor by almost everyone—except Green.

Not only was the gallery surprised but Kepler was as well as the Columbus boy continued his steady game, taking Kepler to the eighteenth green where he "blew up" after his second shot had hit a tree. On the home hole Kepler holed his fourth shot while Green took that many to get on the carpet. The match went to the Dayton lad one up.

Kepler and Reston will play 18 holes this morning and another 18 this afternoon while the final matches of the consolation flights will be sandwiched in between.

Sports Editor, The Star

THE C., D & M. Electric company's recreation baseball team can today credit its being in a tie for first place in the Industrial league standings to a small obstruction somewhere in the right field of Lincoln park. This small obstruction deflated a ball just enough yesterday to allow it to get past the Steam Shovel's right fielder for a triple, paving the way for the single score that won the ball game for the Electricians from the Shovel, 1 0. The victory kept the C., D & M in a deadlock with Huber for the top with eight games won and one lost.

A Bad Error

While in the business of being thankful for winning the game the Electricians might also include some mention of Zig Snyder, Steam

Shovel pitcher, who made a slip in the last frame that put the Shovel out of the running. Snyder came through with a timely single to fill the bases with two out. Everything looked rosy for a Shovel score as Gamble, Electricians' hurler, was on the verge of blowing up in a big way. Snyder in his anxiousness to score a run ran off first base and was called out for the third out. The game ended there. But had it not been for the right field obstruction that allowed Applegett's single to go for a triple the teams might have been playing yet.

The Erie Roundhouse continued on its comeback path yesterday by giving the Gasco club a one sided whitewashing to the tune of 8-0. No scorebook was turned in for the game so details are unavailable.

Huber Wins Easily

The Huber Manufacturing company breezed along on the path which runs in the general direction of the Industrial league pennant by giving the Fairfield company a 10-2 beating. Myron Gibson and Burke contributed to the Huber cause by banging out home runs. Cram and Brahm collected a triple apiece.

The Silk Mill batters had on their hitting clothes yesterday and safeties fairly rained off their war clubs as they met the C. & O. railroad nine. The final score of the game was 12 2 for the Weavers, collected through the simple medium of hammering Gruber, C. & O. hurler, for 16 safe hits during the seven innings. Gorenflo and Sawyer clouted a triple apiece. Messenger, Burke and Arndt of the Silk Mills all had field days at bat, getting three hits apiece.

SHAKE-UP LOOMS

Bruins Recall Outfielder in Effort To Bolster Team.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10—Another shake-up in the Cub outfield appeared certain today with the recalling of Vincent Barton, fleet footed outfielder of the Los Angeles club.

Barton, purchased by the Cubs last spring from Baltimore and then turned over to Los Angeles, was recalled last night and outfielder Johnny Moore turned over to the Angels. Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs intimated he would use Barton in left field, Cuyler in right and alternate between Danny Taylor and Hack Wilson in center. Wilson's ankles are bothering him again while Riggs Stephenson, who has been slowing up in the field, will drape the bench except for pinch hitting roles.

Robbins Pitches Stars to Win Over Firemen

Francis Robbins hurled the Marion All-Stars' recreation baseball team to an 8-7 victory over the Police-Firemen nine yesterday despite a flock of errors which allowed the losers most of their runs. It was the twenty-seventh victory for the All-Stars against four defeats. Both teams flashed good work in the infield.

Score by innings and batteries:

Police-Firemen	033 100 0	7	10 2
All Stars	203 210 x	8	12 3

BAD BREAKS HINDER EFFORTS OF GIANTS TO CATCH CARDINALS

Lindstrom Latest Addition to Hospital List; Cleveland Loses, 3-0.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
By The Associated Press

Things are not looking so bright for John McGraw's New York Giants, despite the fact they have managed to cling to second place in the National league by a few percentage points. Misfortune has dealt the Polo grounders a series of body blows lately, just when the fighting appears to be getting good.

The latest jolt to the team's pennant hopes came yesterday, when Freddie Lindstrom, who rapidly was proving himself as great a right fielder as he was a third baseman in other years, broke a small bone in his left instep. Prospects are he will be out for three weeks or a month. Hughie Critz, the club's regular second baseman, has been on the bench for several weeks.

Still Retain Lead

Before he was carried from the field yesterday Lindstrom had hit a homerun and a single to start the Giants on their way toward a 9 to 3 victory over the Phils. The win could not have come at a better time, as the boisterous Brooklyn Robins were taking the Boston Braves, 6 to 2, behind Watson Clark's fine pitching. The Giants still had a three point lead over their rivals for second place today.

Notwithstanding their victories both clubs lost ground in their pursuit of the Cardinals, who racked down on the Cincinnati Reds twice, 3 to 1 and 9 to 1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates continued to be tough on their home grounds, making it two straight over the ambitious Chicago Cubs, 4 to 2. It was their sixth victory in seven starts.

Senators Gain

Washington managed to pick up a full game on the Athletics by slaughtering the Boston Red Sox, 14 to 1, while the leaders were losing their opener at Yankee stadium 9 to 4. Joe Cronin, brilliant Senator shortstop, pounded a pair of Boston pitchers for a home run and two singles, driving in six runs.

"Lefty" Gomez slender Yankee southpaw, turned in his second straight victory over the champion Athletics, allowing Connie Mack's sluggers only three hits in the first seven innings. Lou Gehrig featured the winners' attack with his twenty-first homerun and a double, driving in five scores.

Two members of the University of Pennsylvania's mound staff for the past season made their major league debuts during the afternoon. Al Masters pitched the ninth inning for Washington and allowed only one hit, while his former teammate, "Big Jim" Peterson, twirled a hitless inning for the Athletics.

Vic Frasier pitched airtight ball in the pinches to give the Chicago White Sox a 3 to 0 victory over the Indians. Frasier left 14 Indians stranded. The Detroit Tigers fell upon three St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits and an 11 to 7 triumph.

MARION QUITS

Harpster Gets Post in Rural League; Meets Morral Sunday.

The Marion franchise in the Rural Community baseball league has been sold to Harpster. The Marion nine will drop competition in the league and play as an independent team for the remainder of the season. As a result Morral will be the only team in the Rural Community league using Lincoln park as a home ground. All original home games of Marion will be played in Harpster. On Sundays when Morral is not booked for Lincoln park the Marion Independents will compete on the local diamond with other independent teams.

Harpster will get its first taste of league competition this Sunday when it stacks up against Morral at Lincoln park. Motral is running a fairly good race in the league and will give Harpster a stiff test in the latter's opening game. The game is called for 2 30 p. m. at Lincoln.

TWIN BILL CARDED

Agosta baseball fans will have the opportunity of seeing a doubleheader Sunday afternoon as two games have been arranged for the county town. Essex will meet Agosta in a Tri-county league game at 2 p. m. and Green Camp will play Agosta in the second game of the twin bill. The second game is not a league contest.

BREAKS RECORD

Kaye Don Pilots Speedboat to New Mark in Italy.

By The Associated Press

GARDONE, RIVIERA, Italy, July 10—Kaye Don, British sportsman has boosted the world's speedboat record to 119.223 miles per hour.

After three months of unsuccessful assaults on the record of 103.49 miles an hour he set off Buenos Aires this spring, Don piloted his Miss England II over a measured course on Lake Gardia yesterday at a rate of 107.878 miles an hour in one direction and 112.569 miles in the other, the new record being the average between the two.

British Players Advance in Davis Cup Matches

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 10—Great Britain's Davis cup team was only one victory removed from the inter-zone final with America's youthful tennis stars.

The British aces, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, and Fred Perry, won both of the opening singles matches in the European zone final, with Czechoslovakia yesterday. Austin whipped Roderick Menzel after a long struggle 3-6, 6-2 6-8, 6-3, and Perry defeated Ladislaus Hecht, 6-1, 8-6, 6-3. A victory in the doubles today automatically would clinch the series for Great Britain and earn for them the right to meet the United States in the inter-zone finals at Paris July 17, 18 and 19.

PERCY ALLISS LE FIELD IN CANAD OPEN GOLF TOUR

Three American Stars Stroke Behind British F in Toronto Play.

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Ont., July 10—golfers of five nations, led by Alliss of Berlin, sought to g man par another lacing Canadian Open golf champ today.

Alliss came home late in ternoon with 67 in the first of the Open yesterday to le field by a single stroke. Ten scores that bettered par of 7 hung up at the Mississauga

Alliss, a late starter, ra home an 18 foot putt for a three on the home green to the lead by a stroke from United States aces, Tomm mour, defending champion, Hagen and Wiffy Cox. A back of this trio was Johnn rell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., w together 16 fours, two threes deuce for his 69.

Cox played the new ball of ed States rules. The others the old heavier and smaller permitted in Canada.

Dear Sir:
I have been a sufferer from ulceration and irritation of the stomach and bowels for 20 years. I have tried all remedies that I have heard about, with slight improvement.
Sometime ago, my attention was called to Yellow Root & Clay which I have consistently used I have taken five bottles and can say that I feel that I am cured of the dreadful malady that afflicted me.
I live at 394 Olney av., Marion, and am employed as a toolmaker at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. I will gladly verify this testimonial upon request.
(Signed) H B Jones.
This is one of many encouraging reports received from those to whom we have sold Yellow Root & Clay. If you are a sufferer from Ulcers irritation or colitis, try this really wonderful remedy

SHORTS START WILD RALLY

Covering in Steel Shares; Other Stocks Regain Early Losses.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 10—The market began to drift today, but while reflecting some uneasiness continued to indicate uneasiness.

Traders still watched intently every move of the head of the steel corporation to raise a large long-expected dividend, which did not in the main body, difficulties would be encountered in taking care of General requirements.

The market had a sold-out appearance. There was a hard drift during the morning, with heavy covering on publication of U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage. This prompted a general selling movement, several prominent issues showing declines of gains of a point or more, with losses of around 2 points in U. S. and Bethlehem shares. Later recovered, and issues which at one time or so included American Can, Public Service of New Jersey, Baltimore and Ohio, Northern Pacific, Allied Chemical Corp. Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester and American Tobacco Common. Stores gained 2 points on a proposal to merge with Macy's. Particular gains were shown by Kodak and Eastman. Columbian Carbon pushed up more than 5 points.

The tonnage of 141,129 tons in unfilled business reported by U. S. Steel was perhaps a little larger than expected, but a substantial decline had been generally discounted.

Trading declined somewhat more substantially than U. S. during the morning selling, and there was no disposition to look for maintenance of the current annual dividend rate at the meeting July 30.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

California Bartlett pears have made their appearance on the market. Dealers were carrying a few today that were selling at 25 cents for a quart basket. Black raspberries are slightly cheaper. The supply was larger and dealers were asking from 20 to 25 cents a quart. With the peak of the season at hand, the crop has not come up to the expectations of growers. Red raspberries are scarce, a few are on the market that are selling at 25 to 35 cents a quart.

Other fruit and vegetable prices were steady today. The supply of all kinds was large and dealers report buying about normal. Roasting ears continue to come on the market in small quantities. Dealers today were selling fairly good quality corn at four ears or 25 cents with a light demand. Green beans were selling at some places at three pounds for 25 cents today while others were holding them for two pounds for 25 cents.

GRAINS MOVE IN UPTREND

Unexpected Rallies at Liverpool React Favorably on Chicago Prices.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10—Influenced by unexpected rallies in Liverpool quotations, grains averaged higher early today, although December wheat touched a new low record. Announcement that France had decreased the quota of foreign wheat allowed to millers was a strengthening factor, and the Canadian government crop report was construed as bullish. Opening unchanged to ⅛ higher, wheat held near the initial limits. Corn started ⅛ off to ⅜ up and later showed but little change.

Increased selling pressure associated with heavy movement of newly harvested domestic wheat, led to price setbacks. Predictions were that the movement of new wheat would continue heavy until the bulk of the soft winter wheat crop had reached the market the early part of August. On the down swings, all deliveries of wheat dipped fractionally below yesterday's bottom figures, and July reached a level under any since 1894.

Bears in wheat stressed big receipts at Kansas City, 1,320 cars against 1,177 at this time last year. It was contended that superabundance of supplies appeared evident, especially in view of slackness of export demand. An additional barrier to United States exporters was a further tightening of import restrictions in France, five per cent more French-grown wheat being hereafter required in flour, making the allowance of wheat only 15 per cent in future. Corn and oats declined with wheat. Provisions reflected upturns in hog values.

German Loan Proposal Carried to Paris Today

By United Press

PARIS, July 10—Dr. Hans Luther, head of the Reichsbank, anxious to curb the drain on German capital, and negotiate a new German loan, started his conversations early today with French officials.

The United Press understood that Dr. Luther was seeking French participation in a long term loan, possibly at least a year, of $400,000,000.

He met with Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, and P. E. Flandin, minister of finance, at the finance ministry.

BRITISH PILOTS ARTISTS AS WELL

The Royal Air Force is an aggregation rightfully famous for its expert pilots, but it wasn't known that many of the British fliers were artistically, as well as aerially, inclined until recently, when rehearsals were held for the annual air show at Hendon. This picture shows three sky-writing acrobats strutting their stuff as colored smoke pours from their air chariots to form a pretty picture. Americans pilots may take a tip and produce a rainbow of red, white and blue in the heavens.

Book Reviews

Turning New Pages

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

MARY E. WALLER gives her readers something out of the run of mine fiction in her new book, "The Windmill on the Dune," now on the shelves at the public library.

The novel is this popular writer's first book since 1924. She is easily remembered by her first novel, "The Little Citizen," published in 1902 and "A Daughter of the Rich," which appeared the following year. In 1924 the latter novel was added to the Beacon Hill bookshelf for boys and girls.

• • •

THE story takes the reader from the Cape Cod country to Brittany with the artist Michel Chelworth, who recounts the story of his life in the first person. The author gives one a glimpse of what goes on in the hearts of those rugged, conscientious and rather chilly-exteriored Cape Cod folk and the reader races through one page of fascinating reading to the next interesting step in the story. Under a less deft pen the story might lapse into commonplace sentiment

• • •

THE windmill plays an important part in the lives of the master of Middlecote, Michel's father, a descendant of a long line of seamen, Michel and Michel's daughter, Connie. It is there that serious family conferences are held and it is there that some of the most important decisions of their lives are made.

• • •

MICHEL'S first great grief comes when his gay, beautiful French mother leaves his father, himself and a younger brother for a more exciting world, and history repeats itself a few years afterwards when Michel's brings his own wife to Middlecote. The death of his younger brother, a successful seaman is another chapter in the life of Michel, who soon after deserts his home to live abroad.

Fortune smiles on the young artist who doesn't respond in any great measure but who, despite his rather bitter outlook on life makes friends readily. Some of his best painting is done on a little island off the French coast and it is here, unknowingly he meets his own daughter, a child of only a few summers.

That Michel is really at heart, a kind man, is proven when he takes Marjolaine, whose days are numbered and her little son, under his care. His friends go on the theory that his friends are theirs and no questions are asked when John and Arria Tanelly arrive in Paris and Marjolaine and her little son are taken into their affections at once.

Jerry's adoption following the death of his mother is a natural sequence and complications develop when Jerry falls in love with the little girl of the "The Breton Hope." Middlecote sees the climax of the story and it is here that Jerry and Connie are wed a few weeks before Jerry returns to his native France to enter the World war.

Not to be overlooked is Michel's cousin Susan, a vivid character, whose keen understanding of Michel and the rest is something to remember. Other Cape Cod characters are equally interesting as are Michel's friends made in his travels.

Editor Writes Mystery Story

RIGHT in August comes Brentano's publication of Stuart Palmer's thriller, "The Penguin Pool Murder," to be tucked away for week-end reading. The author is a New York magazine editor who has written many stories and his publishers promise much by way of interest in his newest venture.

The murderer who chose the aquarium for the scene of his activities had figured without the Penguins. Through them, the group of persons with whom the story deals, became enmeshed in a web of crime and intrigue that vitally and dramatically affect their lives. Miss Rosman Has New Book

"THE SIXTH JOURNEY" by Alice Grant Rosman is listed for early fall publication by Minton, Balch. Miss Rosman will be remembered as the author of "The Window," "Visitors to Hugo" and "The Young and Secret."

John Falconer, famous architect, journeys to far corners of the world to execute the great buildings which have brought him so enviable a reputation. He is a widower, and his little daughter Judith, left with relatives and having no real home has a rather unhappy time of it. The novel tells of the events which finally make it possible for John Falconer to reestablish a home with the assistance of the charming Hilary Revel, one of Miss Rosman's happiest creations.

Travel Authors Tackle Germany

MARY MARGARET McBRIDE and Helen Josephy, authors of "Paris Is a Woman's Town," "London Is a Man's Town," and the recently published "New York Is Everybody's Town" have now decided to tackle Germany and Miss Josephy has already sailed in order to gather material on the spot. This time, however, they will not confine themselves to a single city, but will write an informal and intimate book on Germany as a whole. The book will be published early next year by Putnam's

Tells Story of "Old Ironsides"

"A SON of Old Ironsides" is a highly entertaining story of the adventures of a boy, who, left alone in the world, ships on the "Constitution." In following his adventures one gets a clear picture of actual life on shipboard in the time of our navy's greatest ships and gets an accurate and fascinating account of the historic battles won by this famous old frigate. The story is by John Stuart Thornton with illustrations by Frank T. Merrill.

Dr. Mann Tells of Trip in Letter to Mayor Jones

Five hours in a terrific storm at sea was the experience of Dr. F. R. Mann of this city, who with his son F. R. Mann Jr., is enroute to Washington and Oregon by way of the Panama Canal.

In a letter received by Mayor L. Don Jones today, Dr. Mann gave a report of a pleasant journey with the exception of the storm which he said lasted five hours and was one of the most severe experienced by the ship in a number of years. The letter was written on board the boat and mailed in the Canal Zone.

TO BROADCAST

Dale Sparks of Marion, R. F. D. No. 2, will broadcast a program of old time songs with harp and guitar accompaniment, Monday at 11 a. m. from WAIU in Columbus. He will give a 15-minute program. Sparks has broadcast from the Columbus station and the Mansfield station on several occasions.

A CORRECT CORRECTION

If the glasses you are wearing are a proper—a comfortable correction, you are not conscious that you have them on. A very slight alteration often changes discomfort to comfort. If you have cause to complain that your present glasses are not comfortable we might be able to improve your correction. Ready at your convenience.
